¿TRAITOROUS THEIR ROOTS OR THE VICTIM OF HIS CIRCUMSTANCES?

Synopsis

She came from the southern region of the current state of Veracruz and was known as Nahua woman, Malinche or Doña Marina. She had an outstanding performance in the Spanish conquest of the Mexica empire, serving as interpreter, advisor and intermediary for Hernán Cortés. Despite her intelligence and astute, she became a symbol of betrayal before the invaders, but also the mother of the miscegenation that gave rise to Mexican culture. She is one of the most vilified characters in the history of the country, although we know little about her passions and interests, until now.
